

Renewable. Recyclable.

And part of your day.

Paper has a place in every part of our lives, and every room in our homes. It serves some basic needs. It packages and protects. And it even gives us down-time through books or our favourite magazine.

Did you know?

In South Africa, paper is made from the wood of sustainably grown trees on special farms called plantations. When the trees are harvested, new baby trees – saplings – are planted in their place. This makes paper and wood products RENEWABLE.

Used paper and cardboard is also made into new products that we use everyday like toilet paper, tissues, newspaper and cardboard boxes.

This is called recycling.
